ESCHEW OBFUSCATION

Eschew Obfuscation Coloring Books, is currently located in New York City, New York and is looking to expand to have a headquarters in Los Angeles, California as well. The specialty coloring book company operates with a small batch release, limited edition series business model with reprints of popular books at certain times of year. It is a smaller business with its limited releases and speciality designs, but wants to be able to operate for a large audience.

Eschew Obfuscation portrays an image of a modern company that is both current and timeless. Their image has an understanding of what is trendy and popular and takes that into consideration but ultimately does something that is more enduring than a passing microtrend.

The coloring books allow one to set their mind at rest and focus on something that isn't marred by climate change, politics, capitalism or their school or work lives and is completely offline.
